► Project background

The Swiss Agency for Cooperation for Development and the International Labour Organization have agreed to cooperate in the implementation of the Project Extending Social Protection to Migrant Workers: Exploratory Research and Policy Dialogue in the Gulf Cooperation Council Countries' for the period of 1 January 2021 and 30 June 2023. The project is extended until March 2024.

The overall objective of the project is to provide inputs that will contribute to extending social protection access to migrant workers in GCC, aiming for equality of treatment with nationals. It will do so by increasing the state of knowledge of existing coverage and levels of accessibility, facilitating dialogue between stakeholders and providing insights into potential policy reforms (see scope of work). By extending social protection access to migrant workers, the project may also have indirect effects such as fostering better working conditions and hence productivity and promoting mobility of migrant workers including the ability to return home without losing accrued benefits.

The outcome of the project are:

1. A comprehensive regional mapping of the existing social protection mechanisms in the GCC countries provides insights on levels of accessibility and coverage, and a country in-depth analysis of social protection needs and gaps for migrant workers in selected GCC countries
2. Policy dialogue to identify the most relevant social protection coverage gaps, recommendations, opportunities for reform and potential entry points to expand coverage to migrant workers.
3. Identification of specific reform entry points for enhancement of social protection for migrant workers are identified in selected GCC countries and progressive improvement of the social protection policy environment, scheme design or administration is achieved to the benefit of migrant workers in selected areas as relevant.

► Assignment objectives

In order to showcase and highlight the key achievements of the project, the ILO aims to develop a communications strategy. The strategy should include communications activities to be implemented throughout the duration of the project. Such activities include press releases, and social media activities. The project communication activities are to be integrated with the ILO Regional Office for Arab States' communications and public information,

The overall objective of the communications work is to bolster ILO's visibility in supporting social protection for all. More specifically, the communication works aim to showcase the outputs of the project whether publications, events, or success stories.
