INTRODUCTION

The Code of Ethics (from here on referred to as: “Code”) is an official AVSI Foundation document (from here on referred to “AVSI” or “Foundation”), approved by the Board of Directors, which contains principles and rules of conduct to be followed by anyone who works or deals with the Foundation, such as partners, donors, beneficiaries.

The purpose of the present code is to declare and disseminate the values and rules of conduct that the Foundation intends to maintain as a reference during its activities.

The present code is binding and must be met by all staff members: this includes anyone who conducts activities on behalf of the Foundation, anywhere, both within Italy and abroad, anyone who fulfils roles of representation, administration or management of the Foundation, as well as collaborators and external consultants operating in the interest of AVSI.

Control over the compliance with the present Code is exercised by a Supervisory Authority as per the “Model of Organization, Management and Control” pursuant to Decree n. 231 of June 8, 2001 (from here on “Model”). The Supervisory Authority may propose changes to the Board to stay up-to-date with new laws and with potential new activities.

The present Code was adopted by AVSI Foundation Board of Directors on 2013, April 30 with immediate effect.

The present Code is available on the Foundation website and is displayed on the wall of the Foundation's headquarters.

All AVSI network members are required to adopt the present code or equivalent document stating equivalent principles binding for all their staff members.

GENERAL ETHICAL PRINCIPLES

AVSI Foundation was founded in 1972 as “Association of Volunteers for the International Service”.

It is a not-for-profit organization following the Social Teaching of the Catholic Church, its mission is the promotion of development cooperation activities – also abroad - volunteering and support to peoples in developing countries, transition economy countries and any country that experiences acute need or emergency situations. In some of these latter cases, it intervenes even on a humanitarian level.

It was recognized in 1973 by the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs as a non-governmental organization for international cooperation (NGO); is registered as a PVO with the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) and holds General Consultative status with the UN Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) in New York.

In 2004, the Council of Founders officially transformed AVSI from an association into a foundation, thus calling it “AVSI Foundation” and approving its statute.

AVSI is involved in more than 100 cooperation projects in 37 countries worldwide in Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean, Eastern Europe, Middle East and Asia. AVSI's main activity areas are education and social development, urban upgrading, healthcare, labor, agriculture, food security and water, energy and environment, humanitarian emergency and migrants and refugees

The general ethical principles that inspire the work of AVSI Foundation and to which it aims to adhere, represent the founding values through which it intends to achieve its mission.

These general principles are the following:

- Honesty
- Loyalty
- Fair conduct
- Solidarity
- Non-discrimination
- Trasparency
- Responsibility

ETHICAL PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

The ethical principles stated hereabove, which orient the work of the Foundation, are elaborated in further detail in the following ethical principles of conduct. These will guide AVSI Foundation staff members towards more professional, moral and fair management.

Legality

AVSI's inescapable principle is respect of law and regulations in force in all countries where it operates. Employees, collaborators, providers, partners, donors and anyone who deals with AVSI must commit themselves to this principle. AVSI will not establish or maintain any relation with anyone who does not abide by this principle.

AVSI clearly states that no-one can violate the law by arguing that he does so in the interest of AVSI, as what is against the law is against AVSI.

Equality and non discrimination

AVSI Foundation will not favor, either directly or indirectly, any form of discrimination based on gender, age, ethnicity, religion, political or union affiliation, language or health conditions.

Safeguard and protection of the person

The value of the person as such is a fundamental principle that guides AVSI's conduct. The Foundation's approach is based on listening and dialogue with the goal of improving solutions and services offered to users and stakeholders, as well as professionalism and skills of its own staff.

Throughout its work and projects, AVSI safeguards and promotes human rights within the range of its activities, by cooperating with and supporting other international organizations pursuing this goal. AVSI will not favor, either directly or indirectly, any abuse. On the contrary, it will report any abuse it comes to know of.

Dutifulness

AVSI Foundation will respect its employees and require them to always act with attention and accuracy in their work, through the best use of available resources and by avoiding undue burdens and waste of resources.

The Foundation will constantly provide training and development programs in order to increase professionalism of staff at different levels and improve their professional and management skills.

Honesty

AVSI Foundation requires its employees, partners, collaborators not to pursue any personal or company's benefit, against the law in force and the rules contained in the Code of Ethics and in the Code of Conduct. They are likewise required, not to do any actions that go against what common sense deems correct.

Trasparency

The Foundation ensures and maintain as much transparency as possible in its activities: every operation and transaction is accurately recorded, authorized, verifiable, lawful, consistent and reasonable, according to the law in force and internal regulations. Bribery, corruption and complicity in such wrongdoing are prohibited. Anyone who has any relation with the Foundation must be provided with complete and accurate information on the activities they have to do with.

In particular, all accounting must be adequately reported so that it is possible to assess the actual financial performance of the Foundation and monitor a not-for-profit conduct, in compliance with the Foundation's Statute.

Equality and impartiality

AVSI Foundation will act with equality and impartiality and provide equal treatment to anyone it has to deal with, maintaining adequate distinction between the different roles of the subjects.

AVSI requires objectivity and fairness on the part of its employees and collaborators in their work and in the judgments that they express, regardless of any personal relationship (family or otherwise).

Protection of privacy and confidentiality

The Foundation ensures compliance with laws on privacy and confidentiality. Data protection and data security are also guaranteed at all times according to Decree n.196/2003.

All personal and sensitive data are processed in a lawful and fair way, thus preventing third parties from accessing them.

Foundation staff and collaborators are prohibited to use personal information for any purpose other than their specific employment activities.

Absence of conflict of interest

Through the course of their activities, employees and collaborators must avoid situations in which they may have or seem to have a conflict of interest.

A conflict of interest occurs when a person to whom the present Code of Ethics applies, pursues an interest other than the Foundation's mission or engages in activities that may interfere with their ability to make decisions in the sole interest of the Foundation.

Just as an example, a conflict of interest occurs in the following situations:

- direct and indirect ownership of shareholding or financial interests in supplier, competitor and client companies;

- acceptance of positions of any kind at supplier, donor or partner companies.

In case of conflict of interest, the employee to whom the present Code of Ethics applies must immediately inform the person in charge.

Sustainable Development

AVSI Foundation respects the principle of sustainable development and fosters a fair social environment, particularly in the management of trade relations with Africa, South America and all the fields in which AVSI operates.

Furthermore, AVSI protects the environment as a primary asset and aims to ensure compatibility between projects and environmental necessities in the countries in which the project is implemented, by encouraging the use of environmentally friendly technologies.
