Handiss team has built a network of thousands of vetted and verified engineers and architects locally and globally, which can be used by any company, whether for a full-time, contract, or freelance hiring. They cover all basic trades in design and consulting as well as a diverse range of niche skills such as BIM, green building, bridge design, traffic engineering, hydrogeology, and much more.

By subscribing to Handiss, a company will be able to scan through profiles using industry-specific search filters and contact any candidate it believes fits its requirements. On top of that, Handiss offers a recruitment assistance service where a dedicated account manager would help a company find the right candidates for their jobs. Whether a company needs to hire on a full-time, contract, or even freelance basis, it can just provide its account manager with the job description, and Handiss team will send recommended candidates every week until the company finds the right fit.

Clients are potential subscribers and users of Handiss services, where each client can receive an online account to access the online services and find professionals, hire them, work, and pay them through Handiss software. Handiss charges companies a monthly subscription fee, and fees may vary depending on the size of the company.

Handiss, and due to repetitive approaches from interested companies and individuals from the USA, have incorporated a company in Delaware, USA (Handiss Inc.).
