Section 3: Scope of Work

A- Description of the Client

Greenyard Agri sal      Maameltein, Ghazir

Greenyard is an agricultural company established in 2018 that imports and distributes agricultural input such as specialized seeds (for professional farmers), plants (Bananas, Cherries, etc.), peat moss, and some other organic nutrients. In addition, the company implements turnkey agricultural projects mainly in the banana and the grapes sectors all over Lebanon. Today, Greenyard is investing to develop its operations to supply the market with locally developed products that meet Lebanese farmers' needs and the Lebanese farming conditions.

The company started by implementing a nursery in South Lebanon. The purpose of the nursery is to help local growers produce new types of bananas that were usually imported. Greenyard imports banana plantlets (3 to 4 cm height) from tissue culture in Latin America such as Colombia and Costa Rica. Inside the nursery, Greenyard produces banana plants that are sold to growers who can produce Class A bananas having the same quality of the world-famous Chiquita and Dole brands. This procedure would replace significantly the import of such fruits and even more, it will allow the growers to export their fruits to the regional countries.

The company is negotiating with new buyers such as agricultural development and trading companies, Greenyard will be selling the new buyers all kinds of agri-products, organic nutrients, and banana plants.

Greenyard is expanding its research lab, nursery, and farms, as well as its warehouses to be able to support the increasing number of clients and to be in line with the latest technologies to better serve its clients. By growing its operations, it is now an important requirement that the company shifts from the conventional methods of handling the resources to technology. Therefore, Greenyard invested in SAP business software, an Enterprise Resource Planning system (ERP), but the company doesn't know how to fully use it.

LED will cost-share with Greenyard to hire an expert in the implementation of management information systems, and mainly using SAP technology. The expert or analyst will have to manage the proper implementation of the ERP according to the company's needs and requirements in all departments. The consultant will work on the proper integration of the various features such as reporting, invoicing, accounting, purchase cycle, inventory management, receipts, P&L, and balance sheets.
