Section 3: Scope of Work

A- Description of the Client

Kaak Zaman SARL Mazraat Yachouh, Industrial zone.

Kaak Zaman (KZ) is a bakery producing kaak which is a dry breadstick covered with toasted sesame seeds and flavored with mahlab, a very popular spice in the Lebanese pastry world.

It all started in 2008, from Joseph's home kitchen where his mother baked these delicious outstanding orange cookies and Joseph used to pack them in small boxes and sell them to his friends. As the number of clients and demand increased exponentially, Joseph learned his mom's recipes, made some enhancements, and became involved in the production as well as in sales.

New flavors and product categories were developed and sold out at full tilt and it was time to expand. Joseph then equipped an entire floor as a small factory and recruited family members to help him produce, label and pack. He handled the daily activity of the business and distributed the products to the major Lebanese supermarkets. Kaak Zaman was the first product of its kind in the Lebanese market.

The unique selling proposition of Kaak Zaman lays in the product characteristics: vegan with no butter, eggs, or margarine, natural with no preservatives, healthy with no added sugar or yeast, diabetes-friendly, cholesterol-free, a good source of fiber, saturated fat-free, and yet exquisitely tasty. The product range includes crackers (Zaatar, olives...), fingers (chocolate, peanuts, cashew & chocolate, hazelnut, cereals, chia...) and the signature Kaak.

KZ clients include Al Rifai, Le Charcutier Aoun, Storiom Saliba, Caliprix, Golden Star, Fahed, and many other supermarkets. They also have a client (Lama store) who purchases their products and sells them in Kuwait.

- Mr. Salim Zakhem, the owner of Inmart.com an e-commerce platform selling food & beverages, gifts, perfumes etc. based in Dubai, is interested in featuring KZ products on his online platform to sell in the GCC region.
- Mr. Chadi Saab, franchisee of Moulin d'Or Bakery in Jbeil, wants to export KZ products to the GCC region and Europe.
- Mr. Richard Odeimi, franchisee of Moulin d'Or Bakery in Sarba, is interested in KZ crackers and Kaak fingers, he is requesting a private label deal.
- Mr. Georges Rustom, the owner of Marina Market, a chain of supermarkets in Ghana, Burkina Faso, and Mali, wants to sell KZ products in his supermarket chain in Africa.
- Dr. Ralph Irani, Food Nutritionist, is working with KZ management to develop healthy products beneficial for the digestive system, and he wants to export those products mainly to Iraq and the GCC region.

KZ products are based on an inherited traditional recipe that has a limited shelf life of two months. This short shelf life is disabling the company from exporting its goods. The owners lack the required know-how to develop the recipe and extend its shelf life most naturally and healthily. On the other hand, the product label requirements and food safety regulations differ from one country to another. KZ team is not familiar with those requirements and does not know the necessary measures that should be applied to comply with those regulations. Besides, the limited expertise in export markets prevents the management from properly selecting the right distributors/partners and efficiently put in place long-term agreements with those partners that would protect both parties' interests, in terms of pricing and responsibilities.

LED will cost-share with Kaak Zaman to hire a consulting firm that will assist the management in overcoming the challenges disabling them from export. A food expert will assess the shelf-life of their products and evaluate the packaging and preservation techniques, solutions, and formulation (additives use) most naturally and healthily to preserve the company's unique selling proposition. The consultant will measure and frame the recipes of the products to meet the best shelf-life and ensure they are delivered to consumers with the best quality and care, through carrying out suitable tests. He would help improve the recipe, package, and label, extend the shelf life and conform to the requirements of the destination markets.

In parallel, another consultant knowledgeable in the business development mainly for export markets (MENA region and others), will assist the company to set an export guide for the company's diverse product lines. The consultant will establish the guidelines and procedures necessary to export the different products with the details and specifications related to each targeted country. He will also assist the management with the implementation and optimization of the export process and manual, market selection, distributor contact, agreement preparation, and price selection.
